Springfield Principal Jose Irizarry selected as 2009 Nellie Mae Education Foundation Principal Scholar

Springfield, MA (May 22, 2009) – Dr. Jose H. Irizarry, Principal of Margaret C. Ells: An Early Childhood School in Springfield, Massachusetts has been selected as a 2009 Nellie Mae Education Foundation Principal Scholar. As a Principal Scholar, Irizarry will be participating in CAYL’s innovative July 2009 National Conference, entitled “Young Learners in America’s Schools: What’s in Your Toolkit?” This Conference is a result of three years of CAYL’s intense work with elementary school Principals in Massachusetts who have pre-kindergarten programs in their schools, and the demand from other states for this type of training.

Irizarry will join with other elementary school Principals and early childhood Administrators from across the United States in a hands-on, interactive Conference featuring site visits to high quality early childhood programs in Boston and Cambridge, national experts, and interactive workshops. They will join CAYL’s growing Network of elementary school Principals who want to increase their knowledge and skill in early childhood education for the betterment of their school’s prekindergarten program.

“At CAYL, we are delighted to welcome Jose at the Young Learners Conference and to work with him,” said Valora Washington, CAYL President. “Jose brings a unique perspective to our Conference, and we look forward to integrating him into our existing network of Principals and early childhood professionals from across the nation.”

As more elementary school Principals incorporate programs for prekindergarten children into their schools and as more of the public begins to recognize the increased value of early childhood education, Principals across the country want to learn more about appropriate ways to lead programs with children younger than kindergarten and how to align the youngest children with standard elementary school practices

CAYL’s Young Learners Conference, led by trained and experienced Principals, will offer a pathway to vision, strategy and practice for addressing the current realities that Principals face. The Conference will create the conditions for Principals to empower themselves and create sustainable change for children.

Features of the National Conference include:

- Panel Interviews and Interactive Discussions
- National Experts on Early Education and Care in Public Schools
- Boston Children’s Museum Field Trip

- Site Visits to NAEYC Accredited Early Education Schools
- Roundtable Lunches and Discussions
- Each participant will receive a copy of the CAYL Principals Toolkit, a universal digital media tool to facilitate the rapid dissemination of high quality best practices for America's youngest learners.

This year, the Nellie Mae Education Foundation awarded a $50,000 grant to the Cambridge-based CAYL (Community Advocates for Young Learners) Institute to bring 22 elementary school Principals from school districts across Massachusetts to participate in the National Conference.
